The Mind Connections Journey

2006

Daya and Padmina Howpage founded Mind Connections Specialist Health Services .

Community Focus

Daya and Padmina saw a need in their community for a specialist mental health clinic that was patient-focused and committed to assisting their personal development.

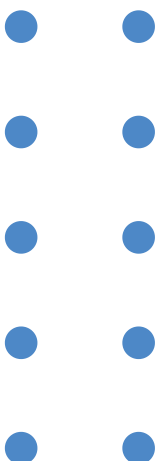

Growth

Through the years the practice developed to include a variety of Allied Health specialists and after 15 years now boast relationships with more than 1600 GPs through organic growth.

What We Offer

05

Mind Connections Specialist Health Services have built a strong company culture of guiding and assisting young and emerging doctors, with a higher rate of mental health concerns than senior practitioners.

Mind Connections Specialist Health Services offers franchisees the opportunity to own their own Allied Health clinic under the banner of a reputable, established Sydney practice.

Franchisees are supported by the centralised office that offers full training in administrative and IT Systems as well as access to our highly trained IT specialists.

All franchisees keep their data safe in a cloud-based centralised server designed to streamline practitioners and owner operators' documentation processes.

Robust marketing strategy which will include digital and television advertising.

Franchisees are free to grow and develop their practice, confident in the knowledge that they are entering into an environment of support.

The Ideal Franchisee

The ideal Mind Connections Specialist Services franchisee is experienced and confident in their specialty field and professional knowledge.

Franchisees must be in a financially secure position and looking to make the transition from practitioner or resident to practice owner.

Mind Connections Specialist Services is run by a team of community-minded individuals, passionate about making a difference in their community and values that align with the company ethos.

Patient-centric approach to their practice and clinic operations, focusing on meeting the needs of their patients and helping them achieve their best long-term health outcomes

The Mind Connections Difference

Awards and Accolades

Dr Padmina was awarded the Women of the West award from Western Sydney University and has also published a successful all-ages book focused on mental health and wellbeing.

Over 4 decades of combined experience

Dr Padmina and Dr Daya have more over four decades of combined experience. In addition to their practice, both have lectured at universities and been recognised for their outstanding expertise in their fields.

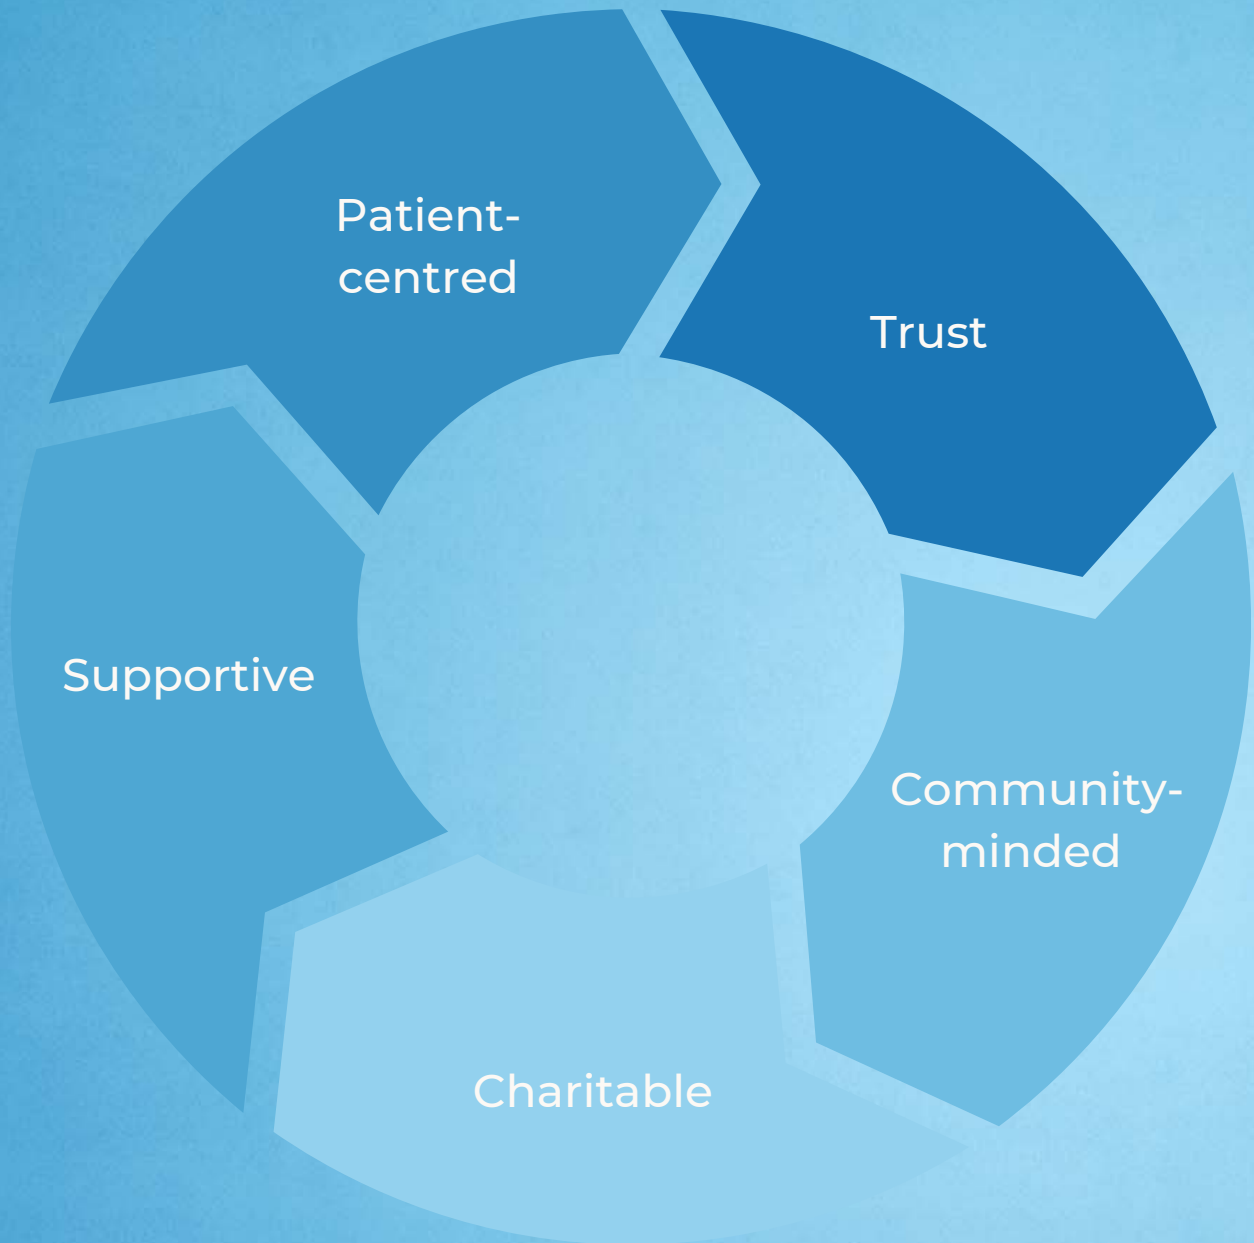

Our Mission

At Mind Connections Specialist Health Services we believe that courtesy and respect is the foundation for meaningful relationships with our patients and within our team.

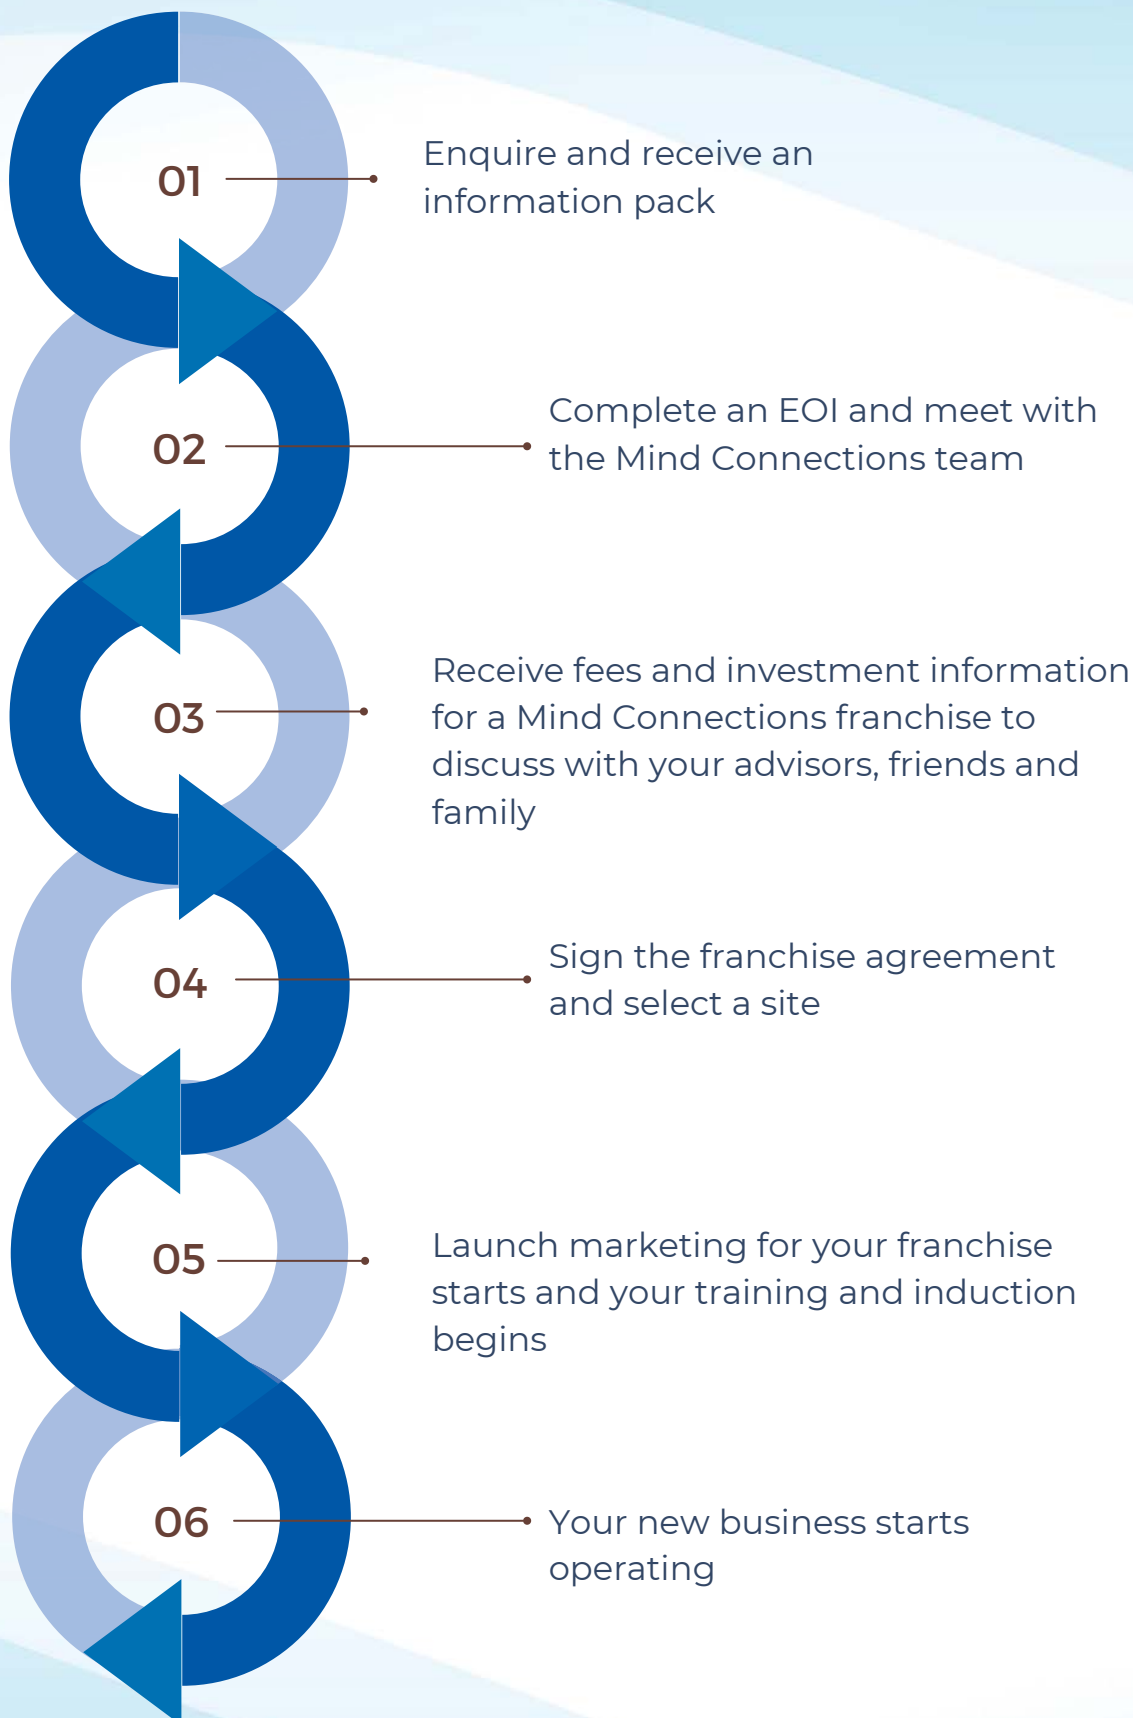

Our Values

09

We believe in the necessity of creating a culture that supports meaningful ongoing treatment for patients as well as support for budding young doctors.
